Sealed bids on the purchase of the Lyon tabernacle will be received until next Tuesday by the building committee.

"The blood-stained banner of Jesus Christ is ascendant; the black, defying emblem of viciousness and sin is being brought down from the mast of many a life and Newark is establishing itself as a city wherein the power of the crucified Christ is to be imparted to men and women in their efforts to establish righteous-ness." is the slogan of the optimistic hundreds—yes the thousands—who are being influenced by the personality of Dr. Lyon and his doctrine of "The Lordship of Jesus" at the big tabernacle.

Over two thousand persons have now made a definite stand for Jesus Christ during the last five weeks, although the enemies of the revival movement prophesied, with a spirit of evident satisfaction at the time, that the evangelist would do well to secure a few scant conversions night-ly. They reckoned not, however, with the power of Christ, to convict men of their sinful pasts, and the great reward that is offered to those who forsake the ways of wickedness and take up the cross. The city is being stirred in a wonderful way, men and women who have never felt within their breasts a passion for the things of divine origin are declaring their desire for righteous lives. Those who have been church members but not working at it have been filled with the great desire to bring others to Christ, and herein lies the true secret of a revival—the alignment of all church members as soul winners in the kingdom of God.

The two thousand mark was reached during last night's after-noon meeting, when a hundred men and women accepted Christ as their personal Lord and Savior. This great working of the Spirit brought its conviction at the close of one of the most powerful sermons, theologically and from the literary standpoint, that Dr. Lyon has yet preached in this city. Four thousand people were numbered in the great audience and of this number 250 were members of a delegation of the business girls of the city who were tendered a supper at the Plymouth Congrega-tional church earlier in the evening and then marched in a body, preceded by the "Buckeye Band" and followed by over two hundred members of the local lodge of the Knights of Pythias, to the taber-nacle, reserved seats were given them in the center and left sections. From the ranks of these two splendid dele-gations came a large share of the converts of the evening, men and women who are daily confronted with trials and temptations, but who found in Dr. Lyon's message of the supremacy of the love of God, their hope for salvation from the sins of the world.

The service really started at seven o'clock when Prof. R. E. Mitchell took charge of the chorus choir and directed the singing of a new song "Till I See My Mother's Face," during the singing of which the two delegations entered. Prof. Mitchell at once directed his singers to sound the martial strains of "Onward, Christian Soldiers," and as the five hundred visitors filed down the long aisles to the sections reserved for them, the air seemed entirely ap-propos. A true band of Christian soldiers in principle, if not in defi-nite acceptance, and seeking for light on the most profound subject that has ever disturbed the consci-ence of a city—the problems of the accepting or rejecting of Him who died on Calvary for the sins of men. "The Fight is On" sang the cho-rus and in corroboration of their statement the four thousand voices burst into the great "Coronation" hymn. "All Hail the Power of Jesus' Name." There was a sincerity evi-dent throughout this great composi-tion, as well as an enthusiasm unus-ual, that far exceeded the greatest expectations of the musical director. "Sing it again, friends," he asked, and the audience did his bidding with an obedience that was a splen-did tribute to his personality.

Pythians Sing Enthusiastically
One of the distinct features of the evening was the singing of the Pythian hymn "God Bless Our Knights to Band," to the air of "America." The audience lent their voices with the addition of the final verse of the national hymn. Of course the Pythians were allowed to select a fa-vorite number to be sung by the choir. Their selection could have been prophesied by any one who has watched the effect of the revival's music on the various delegations of men. "The little brown church," called out several of the men, and men of the choir, understanding readily what was wanted, sang "The Church in the Wildwood." The visit-ing fraters sang the chorus with a zeal that was the source of great in-spiration to the rest of the audience, even prompting Director Mitchell to remark—"better than ever sung by any other delegation."

The opening prayer of the even-ing was offered by Rev. Dr. McMillan, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Last Liverpool, where Bil-lizard and Capt. Swank late Sat-urday. He was caught near the Heisey Glass Plant. This is the sec-ond time Rouse has escaped from jail, the first escape being about four months ago.

MRS. DELLA WILLIS MUST PAY $10,000 TO MRS. EBEN BAIRD

Columbus, O., Oct. 26.—A verdict for $10,000, the full amount of damages asked, was awarded late Friday to Mrs. Eben S. Baird, wife of the High street shoe merchant, from Mrs. Della Willis, whom Mrs. Baird has been suing in Judge Biggers' court for alienation of her husband's affections. The jury was out only 15 minutes. Baird had been on the stand most of the day Friday and underwent a long cross-examination by Mrs. Baird's attorney. He admitted that he had taken several trips in company with Mrs. Willis, and that on these trips he had paid her expenses. He told of meeting Mrs. Willis in Cleveland several times and of going with her to Detroit. He also told of an excursion they had taken to Newark, where they registered together at the same hotel as man and wife.

BECKER TO GAIN YEAR OF REPRIEVE

New York, Oct. 26.—Charles F. Becker's name has been automati-cally dropped from the police rolls of the city. It is expected that Becker's case will come before the court of appeals next Wednesday, but it is not expected that a deci-sion will be given for a year or more.

CLERIC PROVES TO BE BRUTE IN HUMAN FORM

Greenville, S. C., Oct. 26.—Rev. T. U. Vaughn, former superintendent of the Odd Fellows' home here, confessed to the mistreating of three little girl inmates of the home dur-ing his residence there. The jury brought in a verdict of 'guilty' and made no recommenda-tions, which means that the prisoner must suffer the death penalty.

PARDON SOUGHT FOR MODERN JEAN VALJEAN THAT DAUGHTER MAY WED

Gov. Joseph M. Brown, Thomas Edgar Stripling and Ruth May Stripling.

Gov. Joseph M. Brown of Georgia has again been petitioned to pardon Thomas Edgar Stripling, modern Jean Valjean, now serving a life sentence in the state penitentiary. The peti-tion is signed by a. t. one man, E. T. Youngblood of Tallulah Falls, who is in love with Stripling's daughter Ruth May.

Stripling killed a neighbor fifteen years ago because of an alleged in-jury to Stripling's sister. He was sentenced to life imprisonment but shortly thereafter made his escape and for 12 years lived an exemplary life in Virginia. Two years ago, when he was recaptured, Ruth, his favor-ite daughter, solemnly vowed that she would marry no one until after her father's release. She will not marry Youngblood unless her father is pardoned.

RAILROADS WILL SUBMIT PLANS FOR THE SUBWAY

The old city hall building SHALL stand. Not a stone, timber, or brick will be disturbed toward demolition, unless it will be mer with an injunc-tion.

Supt. Cahill of the Baltimore & Ohio road, and ex-Supt. J. F. Irwin write or communicate with city of-ficials, saying the road they repre-sent has its plans for a subway in South Newark completed.

Safety Director Collier has sup-port of citizens in the enforcement of speed ordinances.

Two councilmen renew pledges of allegiance to vote against tearing down old city building.

South Side Citizens' Association held important meeting Friday evening.

That the efforts of the South Side Citizens' Association, toward the ac-complishment of the one great ob-ject for the improvement and bet-terment of the entire city, viz. the construction of subways at the grade crossings from Second to Sixth streets, are bearing fruit, was evi-denced at the meeting held Friday night at the chapel on Pataskala street.

The meeting was called to order by President William E. Miller and to commit even more startling mis-deemeanors.

The boy was taken to Lancaster by Officer Sheridan at noon Satur-day.

On Friday morning in common pleas court the trial of the case of Mary E. Lyon, administratrix of the estate of S. D. Lyon vs. J. Frank Lock, was begun to the court and a jury. The suit is brought to re-cover a judgment on a promissory note calling for $500, payable to the order of S. D. Lyon, due one year after date. S. D. Lyon was for-merly a resident of Vanatassburg, and postmaster and storekeeper at that place. The defendant for de-fense, says that he never signed or gave the note upon which the suit is predicated; and that he never owed S. D. Lyon $500, or any other sum of money.

On Friday afternoon, the court sustained a motion made by the plaintiff to withdraw a juror and continue the case.

Motion for New Trial.
A motion for a new trial has been filed in the case of the Newark Telephone Company vs. The Ohio Electric Railway Company, in which the court directed the jury to return a verdict in favor of the defendant.

The ground for the motion is that the court erred in sustaining the mo-tion of the defendant to withdraw the evidence from the jury and to direct a verdict for the defendant, and in directing the jury to render a verdict in favor of the defendant.

tonight for the honor and glory of thy kingdom, and for the salvation of souls.

Prayer for Success.

"Come, Holy Spirit, Heavenly Dove, with all thy quickening power, and rest upon the speaker, and all who may take part tonight, and may we have a Pentecost of blessing as we meet in the name of the Son. We pray that thou wilt help thy servant as he brings to us the word of life, as he declares unto us the will of God, and where conviction comes, we pray that these men and women may be willing to obey their convictions and yield themselves to the power of the gospel, and accept Christ as a personal Savior. We pray for this city and all its citizens for all who are here tonight, for the many who have taken their stand for Christ, and for those who tonight for the first time will acknowledge Jesus Christ as their personal Savior.

"Now, with thou direct us through this service, Oh, Christ, thou art here to bless this meeting. We pray that the spirit of God may use each one to thy honor and glory and to the salvation of precious souls. Hear us in this our prayer, and may we all, as we go to our homes tonight, say, 'this indeed, is the house of God. This was the gateway of Heaven and this was the hour of Zion in which many a soul was turned into the kingdom of Jesus Christ.'

At the close of Dr. McMillan's prayer, Prof. Mitchell asked the girls to name their favorite election, which proved to be a Little Talk With Jesus. Rising in a solid phalanx on the left half of the tabernacle the "business girls" sang the verses and chorus of this number in a very creditable manner. Another of the favorite revival songs, "Yes, I'll Sing the Wordless Story," was introduced by Dr. Lyon's remarks, the evangelist taking charge of the service as soon as the number was ended.

The applause that greeted the speaker lasted for nearly a minute and was a sincere tribute to the many manner in which he has found his way to the hearts of the men and women of Newark. He smiled—and Dr. Lyon has the happy faculty of being able to smile pleasantly—and extended a most cordial welcome to the delegations of the evening and to the splendid band which had accompanied the Pythians to the tabernacle.

The Great Friendship.
"It looks good to me to see these magnificent delegations, and other friends here tonight. Certainly God has given us a glorious week. We are glad to welcome this delegation of men. I thought we had some splendid delegations, but I am sure we have had none any better than we have tonight. I am sure that this is an excellent representation of the citizenship of this city. Everywhere we have been, the Knights of Pythias have been our ardent friends. You especially recognize the element of friendship in your order. That's one of the greatest things on this earth. We are not responsible for our relatives, but we are responsible for our friends. I think it can be said about the Knights of Pythias, that they have exalted and emphasized friendship. It's a glorious thing to exemplify the friendship of Damon for Pythias or Pythias for Damon, but even greater than that—and every one of you should agree with me—ever greater was the friendship of Jesus Christ, the son of God, our elder brother, who came to us to serve and suffer and sacrifice and die. Be loyal to your earthly friends, but be loyal to the best friend, to platform. Dr. Lyon declared him to be one of the ablest preachers in the State of Ohio, and the charming manner in which he responded to the call for a few remarks showed his possession of a power that cannot but make for friendship.

Tonsiline Cures Smokers' Sore Throat

The Oasis Near the Pit.
"I bring you greetings from the little oasis, called the gem of the highlands, just on the verge of the pit. Cincinnati to which the speaker tonight made reference a while ago," he said, while the audience laughed heartily. "This seems like old times only a little more so, because the crowd is greater. We thought we had fine times and splendid meetings in Norwood when Dr. Lyon was there, but it strikes me that you have hit a higher plane and a little more enthusiastic than we were at those meetings one year ago. I desire tonight to congratulate you and to felicitate myself upon the splendid meetings of which I have heard so much here in this city."

"You have come here tonight not to hear a stranger speak even a word of greeting or congratulation. But I take it, you have come to hear the Lyon roar. I trust that he will continue roaring until every saloon is closed and every crooked politician and every crooked business man and everything else that is crooked is driven out of your city of Newark."

And He "Made Good."
"I am going to start following a rule I read the other day for all public speakers. It was this—'Stand up so that you can be seen, speak up so that you can be heard, and shut up so that people will like you.' Having fulfilled all three requirements, the Norwood man gracefully resumed his seat on the platform but not without leaving the spirit of the evening perhaps a little more enthusiastic than it was before his remarks."

Dr. Lyon's theme for the evening was "The Supremacy of Love," and his text, Romans 5:8, was announced at the close of an excellent duet, "The Saviour's Call," by Professor Mitchell and Mrs. Grace Powell. "But God commendeth his love toward us, in that, while we were yet sinners, Christ died for us," was the basis of the speaker's argument for the acceptance of that love that was so supreme that it was sufficient to be placed in the balance against the sins of all mankind.

"I think it is well to connect that verse with the preceding one," said the speaker, as he quoted, "For scarcely for a righteous man will one die; yet peradventure for a good man some would even dare to die." The process of the salvation of a soul must be in with the realization of that soul of the personal love of God. The contemplation of other divine attributes are of great importance. First of all, it is important that we appreciate the holiness of God, that our God is absolutely stainless and that, in His holiness, He cannot but look with abhorrence on even a suspicion of sin, and it is the effect of this holiness that gives to you and me confidence in God.

God's Omnipotence in Nature.
"It is also of great importance that we contemplate the wisdom of God. To think of the greatness of omniscience in creating a universe, making every part so nicely adjusted to every other part. But not only is it important that we realize the holiness and the wisdom of God but that we consider the omnipotence, the power of God. Have you ever stood out in the evening under a gathering storm, when the artillery of the skies were sounding and the lightning flashed, and you could not but be awed and shocked at the earth's foundations, and when the clouds cleared away, and you beheld the infinite space of the sky and stars, and thought that our sun 92 millions of miles away is but like a hair's breath in comparison with the greatness of God's universe. Have you not stood there awed and captivated by the majesty and greatness of God's omnipotence? All of these attributes will impress our minds with the greatness of God and create for him a sublime respect. But with all of these elements together win a heart affection and create in the human soul a spirit of personal allegiance. That can come only in response to God's love."

Our heavenly father has given us all through the ages evidences of His holiness and depth and height of His divine affection. He has done this in the works of creation. What is the object of the storm and the stones of the field and the flower of the plant and the planet? What is, in the last analysis, the cause for the creation of mountains and seas and stars? The only reason is for the benefit of man, who is the supreme element in God's universe. But not only is God manifesting His love through the works of creation, but also through the gifts of human intellect.

Our Potential Strength.
Without the least fear of making any of you egotistical, I want to say that you have a thousand fold more intellectuality and ability than you think you have. Professor James of Harvard said, 'There is in every human being a great reservoir of reserve power that one in a thousand scarcely ever taps. You can do in business, society and religion, infinitely more than you think you can. It will take strength to develop your powers and capabilities to their fullest extent. Why did God give all that intellectuality, brain, mind and affection and memory, those emotions, sensibilities and feelings? Why did He give you that divine, godlike faculty of will? He didn't have to. He gave it to impress you, first of all, that God loves you; that there is no one in this universe that He loves any more than He loves you. I do not care what your position may be.

"He also shows His love by His laws. There are some who seem to think that God has been planning to limit man's possibilities and free action. Absolutely the reverse. You cannot have a game of golf, football or baseball without rules. The laws are essential for liberty. God showed His love, not only on Calvary, but also on Sinai, not only through the prophets, God throughout the generations has been endeavoring to impress creatures on this earth with the fact of His infinite affection. When clouds came over the skies, when discourses, difficulties and danger came, then the chosen people would go away from God, wandering after their gods and goddesses, and then God would send a prophet to proclaim, 'God loves you. Come back. Let the wicked forsake his thoughts. Let the unrighteous forsake his thoughts. Let him return to God and He will have mercy on you and give you abundance and everlasting pardon and forgiveness.' Generation after generation, the prophets came, despised, rebuked, rejected, slandered, scorned, killed, and yet God has sent other prophets proclaiming the message of love."

"Not only, though, in the world of creation, intellect, and by His laws and prophets, but God has shown His love by the life and teachings of Jesus," added the evangelist. "Our heavenly father has tried to inculcate in our minds the fact of His infinite mercy and compassion for you and for me. See Jesus as He went about, doing good, healing the sick, restoring sight to the blind, causing the lame to walk and the deaf to hear. Why did He do it? Why did Jesus feed the starving and still the raging storm on the Galilee sea? All to show the kindness of the creator to you and to me, and that pure, wholly affectionate love."

Was Willing to Die.
"But all of these things are not enough to give to the human soul a complete revelation of God. All of these together are not sufficient to woo the affection of a heart that has been hardened by selfishness and sin. How will you get this? It is through the fact of the willingness of Jesus Christ to die for you and for me," declared the speaker.

"You men who are gathered here tonight made the basis of your organization the love of friend for friend, the love of Damon for Pythias. But into the love of Jesus Christ for David, that is beautiful. It is sublime. It transcends the seventh verse of the eighth chapter of Romans, 'For scarcely for a righteous man will one die; yet peradventure for a good man some would even dare to die.' That is the limit of human possibilities, however."

"Now, friends, let's get up beyond the skies and get a glimpse of God. After man has done his best, living and loving, is willing to die for the one who would be willing to die for him, God, in contrast, commends His love towards us, that while we were yet sinners Christ died for us."

"That word 'commends' in the Greek holds a meaning that is not brought out by the English translation," commented Dr. Lyon. "It means that God put His love beyond the shadow of a doubt. Why? The death of Jesus was the sublimity of love. First of all, on account of the sublimity of the person. The supreme One died."

The evangelist showed the meaning of this word 'supremacy' by suggesting that King George, when being crowned emperor of India, might have given his life as a sacrifice in the study of means of curing the Asiatic cholera, rather than merely giving money for the feeding of starving thousands. "The whole world would have rung with the applause of that man, on account of the supremacy of the person," said the speaker.

"Then, there was the supremacy of the purpose, which makes the death of Jesus the supremacy of love—to save us from sin. We read in the papers last summer about a society girl out with her pet poodle dog, boating, and this dog jumped overboard. The girl foolishly went over to save the pup, and lost her life. We read in the papers that a young man, when he saw a child in the water, jumped in and saved the child. We do not think very much of common sense. Why not? Because the purpose wasn't worthy of the risk."

The Gary Hero.
"When a friend lives for a friend, to save that other life, physically, we regard it as a great act. Such as the death of a few days ago of that crippled newboy in Gary, Indiana, that, when a girl, a stranger, had been terribly burned, the surgeons said, 'it will be necessary to have a large amount of fresh skin to put over those portions if they are to heal.' This newboy said, 'I am not much account anyhow. I am poor, homeless; here's this cripple limb I have had up to my ears in. I will give that up willingly.' He went to the hospital, the surgeons amputated the limb. The newboy died. What was the result? You read in the newspapers how the cities of Gary, East Chicago and Whiting turned out and all the men's organizations and it took hours for the procession to pass the corpse of that newboy."

"Why? Because he was willing to give his life to save the life of that girl. And so it was that that surgeon in Paris said Dr. Lyon, 'I have recounted the story of a Parisian namesake, Dr. F. Lyon, 'when a scourge was sweeping over that city. At last, in a medical conference, one after another declared that there was only one way to stop that plague. It would be for some man to volunteer to perform an autopsy, to make a dissection of the corpse of one that had died of that scourge, and report his findings, and in that way they could cure the disease. At last the very ablest surgeon in Paris arose and said, 'Someone has to do it. We all know it means death. I will be that man.' He went home and bade his wife and children goodbye. He went to his laboratory and made his will, and then he went to that dissecting room and performed that autopsy upon that corpse. He was the first to find out the cause, the intimate contact with that disease meant death. He thrust the papers underneath the door, where the doctors found them, and through that doctor's act the plague was stopped. But there beside that dissected body, when the doors were opened, lay the corpse of that doctor."

Christ the World Hero.
"Do you say that is heroism? Yes! There is no one that has red blood filling his heart but who will respond to such sacrifice and service as that. But, oh friends, the death of Jesus was infinitely beyond the death of that surgeon. That death was simply to save physical lives. But Jesus gave His life on Calvary's cross to save you and me from the eternal effects of sin. Not only on account of the supremacy of the person and the purpose, but also the supremacy of the circumstances. Isn't it a beautiful act of devotion for a mother to give her life for her child? It is not long ago that we read of that man, crazed by drink, sold him in a licensed saloon, who thrust his wife and little baby out of the house into the snowy night, bitterly cold. The next morning they found that mother upon the door step. She had taken off every shred of clothing that she had and wrapped it about the baby, and had saved the child's life but had given her own.

"Yes, you and I can respect and admire and honor mother love. But beyond that is the love of God for you and for me. It wasn't a third person that died for us, but God himself in the person of Jesus Christ, on Calvary's Cross, died for me—for us while we were yet sinners."

"My friends, if love doesn't touch your heart there is nothing on this earth that can. It took me a long time to grasp the truth that God doesn't condemn you for simply breaking the commandments and doing wrong. What is the condemnation for? It is for rejecting Jesus, and the fact of God's love for you, that Christ died for you, and the assurance of His love, pleading with you to open your heart's door, and if you still turn your back upon that Christ, you seal your own eternal doom."

"She Loved Her First."
"That fact of love ought to awaken your love in return. Like the little girl who said to her mother, 'Mother, I know why I love you. It's because you loved me first.' Isn't that a great truth. The fact of God's loving us is first ought to dispell all prejudices."

Dr. Lyon devoted a few minutes to the story of the conversion of a boy of mischievous tendencies by the understanding love of a Sunday school teacher. The teacher could do nothing with him during the Sunday school hours, he would pinch, kick, and otherwise annoy the other pupils. Finally she secured his confidence by giving him some presents of a nature that could not help appealing to boys—a baseball, bag of marbles, skates, and other things. Confidence brought about a conviction of his wrong doings and the boy gave his heart to Christ. "He became mayor of Toronto, Canada, and is now superintendent of the very Sunday school that he was about to be expelled from, and would have been had it not been for the love of that noble Christian girl," said Dr. Lyon.

"Oh, friends, if the love of God doesn't remove from your life all prejudice, there is nothing upon this earth that can," repeated the evangelist.

"Yes, it is love that must awaken love in return. Love is contagious, and if there is aught of righteousness and kindness and sympathy in your soul, it must tonight respond to that love of God which gave Jesus Christ to die on Calvary for you."

Dr. Lyon related another pathetic story of a newboy whose loss in the death of his mother seemed irreparable. The boy wished to place a stone at the head of his mother's grave, but his meagre capital would not permit the purchase of anything fine. He finally secured a small broken piece of marble at a small cost, had it engraved at the head of his mother's grave, and there, with a small hammer and the end of a chisel filed the words, 'My Mother, She died last week. She was all I had. She said she would be waiting for me.' Here the inscription stopped. One of the stone cutters, becoming interested in the boy's carving, sought the lad and found that he had been the victim of an accident and was critically injured in one of the city hospitals. Going to the hospital, he found the lad and heard the dying words of the boy.

"I wonder if mother will know it. I did intend to finish it. I did my best."

The stone cutter told the other men in the yard about the little fellow's death, and they 'chipped in' and bought a good headstone, and they put it upon the boy's grave beneath his name and the date of his birth and his death, they carved this inscription: "He loved his mother."

Past All Feeling.
"Oh, friends, doesn't love awaken love in your heart in return? If it doesn't there is nothing that can. If in response to the love of Jesus, there is nothing in your heart that swells up and causes you to love him, then you are beyond hope. You are past feeling. You are in danger of committing the unpardonable sin."

"The fact of the supremacy of the love of Jesus is in that He died for you and me when we were yet sinners. When the world was in rebellion against God. That ought to bring you and me to repentance and confession and to obedience."

Dr. Lyon then told of Rev. I. B. Elder, a hero of two British wars, whose son had become a victim of the cigarette habit. The appeals of the father were without avail, for, despite promises to forsake the habit, the youth would lie and return to the use of the cigarette. Finally, after all other methods had been without result, Dr. Elder called the young man into his library. On the table was a riding whip, with which he commanded his son to strike his bare back, that had on it the scars that he had received on the battle field.

"Father," said the son, "I cannot strike you," said the aged veteran in surprise. The boy closed his eyes and as he brought one lash down on his father's back, he dropped the whip and rushed away, screaming, to his room, threw himself on the bed, sobbing as though his heart would break. The father saw nothing of him that afternoon and night, but on the next morning, when the son came down to breakfast there was a firmness evident in his lips, a decision evident in his countenance, and the father knew that the victory had been gained. "It was through the supremacy of love," fervently declared the evangelist.

Treat Dogs Better Than Christ

"Oh, friends," he pleaded in closing, "if love doesn't reach you, if love doesn't win you, nothing will. In these last moments look away to the thorn crowned Christ, struggling up Calvary's hill. Hear that One with pierced hands knocking at your heart's door. If I were a stranger and I would knock at your door, you would let me in. If on a cold, dark night a poor, hungry dog would come and scratch at your back door, I know you men and women well enough to say that you would open that door and give that dog something to eat. Can it be that a human soul would treat a dog better than you have treated Jesus Christ, the Son of God?"

In response to that supreme love, open your hearts to that great love, and confess publicly that you are going to live for Him. God hath put His love beyond the shadow of a doubt that while we were yet sinners Jesus Christ died for us! Won't you accept Him now?"

And then, while the evangelist pleaded tenderly for lost souls to accept their Christ, from the ranks of the Pythian brothers rose some of the men who have been most instrumental in the city's affairs, and signified their intention of taking up the Cross of Christ in the daily life of Newark. From all parts of the building came responses to the working of the heavenly Spirit, and the greatest night that Newark has ever known brought five scores of souls into the happiness of the kingdom, men and women who by their influence are in a position to bring to the feet of Christ scores of other sinners who have been determined to the city's spiritual progress in the years gone by. The revival fires are burning brightly, the Son of God is working in the hearts of the citizenry of Newark and through His precious love, during the next ten days, following fifteen hundred souls should be brought to a recognition of their great need of a personal Savior.

THE BIBLE AS RECORD OF LAW

"A man of conviction and power" was the unanimous verdict of the Bar Association this morning in the case of "The Association vs. Judge Holloway," at the conclusion of a half hour's address by the defendant. Dr. Lyon's personal assistant during the revival campaign in this city. Nearly fifty members of the bar and court attaches were present during morning hour, and heard one of the ablest discussions of God's eternal wisdom in the direction of the affairs of men, that has ever been delivered in Newark.

Judge Holloway, who is a former member of the Indiana legislature, as well as a member of the New York and Indiana state bar, was introduced to the court by Attorney A. S. Mitchell, and was commended by Judge C. W. Seward to the audience of lawyers, in a brief speech that showed the high esteem in which the New York party is held by Newark's judge. "I have met Mr. Holloway before," said Judge Seward, "and he is a man who has a message for us. I want to say in introducing Mr. Holloway to this body of lawyers, that if there is a set of men in this world that ought to be Christians, it is the lawyers, because they have to do with right and wrong. That's what Christianity has to do with."

The speaker was accorded a splendid applause as he took a position before his audience and entered his pleading. "I feel like a young lawyer in Arkansas that had to appear before the supreme court in a case, and he approached that distinguished body of men something after this fashion: 'I profess to show you fellows—' and here he was stopped by the chief justice, who rapped upon the bench and ordered him to observe the spirit of the court. The young man started again. 'I profess to show to you fellows.' The chief justice again, 'My friend,' said the chief justice, 'we are not your fellows.'"

"I know you aren't," replied the young lawyer, 'but you are the fellows I am after.' And that's my situation—you are the fellows I am after this morning."

The Great Record.

"This is the record in the case," said the speaker, holding up his Bible. "It is reasonable to assume that there will be certain exceptions taken to the validity of the claim put forth by this record, as is usual in court in litigated matters. But this is the record I give to you, and I want to invite your attention, by the way, not for the purpose of exposition especially, but to illustrate a certain part of the third chapter of Romans. The Epistle to the Romans was written by that distinguished Jewish lawyer, Paul, and he has a way of expressing his opinions concisely and to the point, but we do not apprehend quite as fully as we would like to, because of certain difficulties in translation.

"There is enough to give us very clearly a statement of the case, as Paul makes it, and also the conclusion that he comes to in the matter. 'I want you to note the standard that is fixed in this third chapter of Romans, commencing with the ninth verse. The Lord gives us the knowledge of sin. Let us understand that God just deals with men now as he finds them. Men have laws, and Paul shows, through this epistle to the Romans that since men have their laws and their standards of justice, God is going to meet them on their own ground, and deal with them accordingly, and in proportion as a man is enlightened, according to God's grace will he deal with him, and in accordance with his mercy. Likewise. The record shows in this case that originally man started out

MRS. WOODROW WILSON.
Wife of the Democratic Presidential Nominee. Honorary President of the Woman's National Democratic League.
Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, wife of the new leader of Democracy and probable next mistress of the White House, is perhaps the most interesting woman in the United States today. This is inevitable—not because she wishes it, for she does not—and is as firm as a rock in her conviction that being the wife of a public man does not necessitate nor call for a woman's becoming a publicity seeker. She successfully resisted all appeals of photographers and interviewers until Mr. Wilson's nomination as Democratic candidate for the presidency was an fait accompli. This modesty is easily traced to her southern ancestry and training and is characteristic also of her distinguished husband.
She was born Ellen Louise Arson, daughter of a Presbyterian divine of Savannah, Ga., whose family, so far as he knows, is the only one of the name in America.
Like Mr. Wilson, she has one brother and one sister living, all in the same literary circle as the doctor and herself.
In this atmosphere of learning Mrs. Wilson could hardly be expected to be other than she is—widely read, broadminded and charitable, devoted to her home and the principles for which it stands.
She has marked ability as an artist, and it is said that a portrait painter of ability was spoiled when she married the young barrister who had then given up the practice of his profession to specialize on the subject that has made him a presidential nominee.
Mrs. Wilson's three daughters—Misses Margaret Woodrow Wilson, Jessie Woodrow Wilson and Eleanor Randolph Wilson—possess the mental characteristics of their father and their mother's artistic temperament, combined in such a way as to give zest to every moment of their lives and protection from the foibles of the world. They form, indeed, an ideal family circle, one that it would be well for every American household to emulate.

AN INDIAN COOLIE IN THE WEST INDIES.
Visitors to the West Indies are often mystified to find a curious type of black with straight hair worn very long, and regular features. He contrasts strikingly with the natives who are much the same type as our own southern negro. The unfamiliar black men are, in fact, East Indians, who live side-by-side, though entirely distinct from the West Indian negroes. They have been imported in great numbers from the Far East, by the English, to work the plantations. The East Indian works very cheaply, stands the climate well, and is very much more industrious than the West Indians.
On the island of Trinidad, where the largest colonies are to be found, there are more than 100,000 of these East Indians. A characteristic type is shown in the accompanying photograph. He posed very willingly for one of the tourists who visited Trinidad on one of the pleasure cruises of the Hamburg-American Line. The East Indian coolies are very skillful in basketmaking, working very swiftly and cheaply. The basket shown in the picture, which represents three days work, cost but twenty-five cents.

A GOOD EXCHANGE.
A manure pile is not pleasing to the eye when it lies in the yard, but it can be changed into corn or hay in a year if it is hauled and spread in the right places. There is about as much danger of "poisoning" fields with manure as there is of poisoning a harvest band with food—lowa Homestead.

Bigger Corn Yield.
Six years' experiment in South Africa showed that corn planted in rows two feet apart gave a greater yield than when planted in wider rows.

Little Farm Hints.
Potash is especially valuable for wheat, cotton, tobacco, Irish potatoes and the grasses. It should be applied in fall for wheat.
Select for plowing the stubborn, refractory clay soil and on all fields not fall plowed have clover crops growing to be plowed under in spring.
Prolificness is in every case as important a feature as there can be in seed corn. Hence it is very important that the seed ears selected should not only be of best quality in every particular, but should be one of two or three ears that grow on the stalk.
The best time to plant apple trees is as soon as most of the leaves have fallen, which is generally about November. The roots being then in an active state and the ground still retaining a certain amount of heat, they will form new roots before winter, which is a material advantage.

KA-TAR-NO

THE OLD-TIME PERUNA
There was never a medicine that made so many genuine cures of catarrh, coughs, colds, incipient consumption, catarrh of the stomach, as Peruna, the old-time Peruna that used to be sold at every drug store in the land. Great was the disappointment every where when it became known that the old Peruna had been revised, so revised as to make it more valuable as a general household medicine, but less desirable as a specific catarrh remedy.
The old-time Peruna, the catarrh remedy of our fathers and mothers, is now sold under the trade name of Ka-tar-no. We keep it in stock. Call and see us if your dealer does not keep it. You may be interested in a free booklet which we can supply you, giving you a wonderful history of Ka-tar-no.

SEED BED FOR ALFALFA.

Small Seed and Delicate Nature of Plant Require Compact Soil.
When alfalfa is grown on corn or potato ground the preparation of the seed bed is a comparatively simple affair, writes L. R. Waldron of the North Dakota experiment station. The land should be disked in the spring and worked with a peg tooth harrow. After disking and harrowing, the ground should be worked occasionally during the spring with disk and harrow, in order to conserve the moisture and to kill the young germinating weeds.
Growing alfalfa after a corn or potato crop is of added advantage in Photograph by Long Island agricultural experiment station.

SEEDING ALFALFA WITH HAND DRILL.
that the seed bed is firm below the top, two or three inches. The small seed of the alfalfa and the delicate nature of the young plant demand a compact seed bed in comparison to what is allowable for corn or even for wheat.
In an open, porous seed bed the soil is apt to dry out in the upper few inches, and if this occurs shortly after the germination of the alfalfa the young seedlings are quite liable to die through lack of moisture.
If alfalfa is to be grown after a crop of small grain the land should be fall plowed. The fall plowing allows the seed bed to become more compact than spring plowing and, in addition, aids in conserving moisture. The fall plowing should be worked in the spring in much the same manner as the corn or potato ground. Alfalfa may be grown upon summer fallow, though this probably has no advantage over corn ground in most instances.

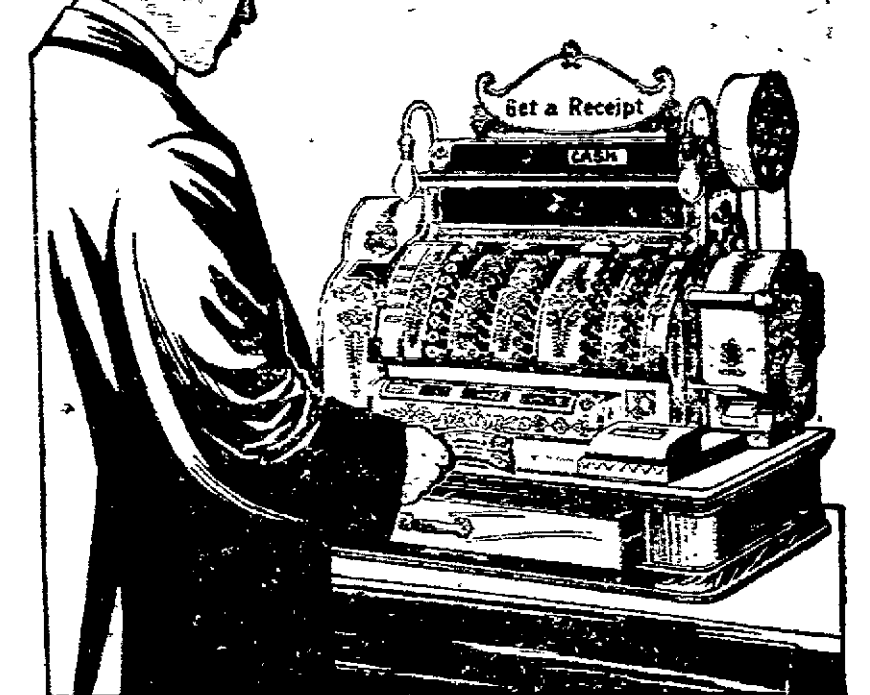

HEALTH HINT FOR TODAY.

Seasickness.
Most sea travelers fear seasickness enough to be interested in a veteran ship surgeon's advice on the subject. He regards it as useless and even harmful to try to check the initial vomiting.
"Leave the patient to his misery and his gloomy thoughts," he says, "for a couple of hours. By that time his stomach will be empty. Then give him a large goblet of warm water, which will be at once ejected."
"After that give him a half dram of bromide of potassium in as large a quantity of water as he seems capable of swallowing. If the bromide solution is concentrated it will make him vomit again, but if it is diluted enough he will retain it."
"Put him to bed and an hour or so later give him another dose. Nine times out of ten he will drop off to sleep and awaken well and hungry."

OUR SPLENDID DEMOCRATIC COUNTY TICKET

Very rarely has the superiority of a local ticket been so marked as that of the Democratic county ticket in Licking county this year.
The ticket deserves the united support of every Democrat, not only for political reasons in this year of Democratic landslide, but for the competent and faithful manner in which the business affairs of the county will be transacted under the administration of those popular candidates.

Of course all the men on the Democratic county ticket will be elected, but the greater their majority the greater will be their obligation and encouragement to give the tax payers of the county a model administration.

Let the whole Democratic ticket be given the largest majority possible.

The truth is, the high cost of living is made to order. Prices are not fixed by competition, or by the law of supply and demand; but by private understanding and wages are reduced or held stationary in the same manner. There can be no relief until import duties on the necessities of life are materially reduced and criminal conspiracies to reduce labor cost are broken up. The Republican protective tariff costs the American consumers at least $2,000,000,000 annually.

THE JUDICIAL TICKET.

The Judicial Ticket will be printed in two columns. The first or left hand column will contain the names of the candidates for Supreme Judge long and short terms. The second or right hand column will contain the names of the candidates for Circuit Judge, long and short terms.
The candidates for Common Pleas Judge and the candidates for Probate Judge. The voter must place an X in front of the name of each candidate he wishes to vote for in each column.

In 1907 the average outlay for food per each American family was $357, while ten years before it was a trifle less than $300. At the present time this figure has reached $410.

WHY TRUSTS PUT UP MONEY FOR THE REPUBLICAN PARTY

Why is it that the Trusts contribute so heavily to Republican campaign funds ?

In the McKinley campaign the contributions amounted to from twelve to sixteen millions of dollars. The majority of it came from corporations.

In the second McKinley campaign from seven to nine millions of dollars were contributed.

In 1904 according to testimony brought out in the senate investigating committee, the Trusts contributed 75 per cent. of the millions of dollars that were raised to elect Roosevelt.

In 1908 the Trusts were again partial to the Republican party, as they have always been, and a fund of seven millions of dollars was raised to pay Taft's campaign expenses.

Records show that the Republican party has made it profitable for the Trusts to contribute. A Republican administration has given the trusts a tariff law which imposes a burden of $115 annually on each family in the country. OF THIS AMOUNT $16 GOES TO THE GOVERNMENT AND $99 TO THE PROTECTED INTERESTS. THE RE-PUBLICAN PARTY HAS IN BEHALF OF THE GOV-ERNMENT FORMED A PARTNERSHIP WITH THE TRUSTS IN WHICH THE GOVERNMENT GETS ONE-SEVENTH OF THE TARIFF TAX AND THE TRUSTS GET SIX-SEVENTHS. NO WONDER RE-PUBLICAN CAMPAIGN FUNDS HAVE BEEN SO LARGE !

The Democratic party's candidate for the White House will,
with the assistance of a Democratic Congress, dissolve that partnership.

TAFT VETOES
IN THE INTEREST OF THE TRUSTS

The Democratic Woolen Schedule bill proposed to reduce the average rate of duty on wool manufacturers from 90.10 per cent. to 48.36 per cent. President Taft's veto of this measure means that the American people will pay $50,000,000 more for their clothes this year than they would have if President Taft had signed it.

A wool hat valued at $1.00 abroad and taxed 78 cents upon its entry into the United States, under the present tariff law, would have been taxed only 49 cents.

Flannel underwear valued at $27 pr dozen suits is taxed under the present law at the equivalent ad valorem rate of about 106 per cent. The Democratic bill proposed to reduce this to 49 per cent. A suit of ready-made woolen clothing worth in Europe $10 is taxed under the present law at the equivalent ad valorem rate of 75 per cent., or $7.50. The Democratic bill proposed to reduce this tax from 75 to 49 per cent. and save the consumer $2.60 per suit.

All these reforms of tariff rates on people's necessities were vetoed by Taft in the interest of the Trusts.

In 1908 campaign President Taft promised a revision of the tariff downward, and in reckless disregard of that pledge vetoed house tariff bills that would have reduced the cost of living $650,- 000,000 a year. Roosevelt throughout his administration made no attempt to lower tariff duties.

The Bucyrus Evening Telegraph has issued a twenty-fifth anniversary paper that is certainly a credit to its enterprising publishers. The Hopley Printing Co.
It is a paper of fifty-six pages profusely illustrated and filled with god things for the reader's digestion. It is also an enthusiastic booster for Bucyrus and is ever-mindful of the city's best interests in its various writeups of influential men, manufacturing industries and public institutions.

The late John Hopley founded

THE THREE VIEWS.
(New York World.)

There is plenty in the land.
Granaries are full. Barns are busting. Cattle and swine are fat. There is money in the banks. Commerce, domestic and foreign, is active. Labor is well employed and in many cases well paid.

Pointing to these things, Mr.
Taft and his followers say in effect that if we disturb the tariff law, written in terms which not one American in ten thousand can understand, all this prosperity must go and in its place must come woe and want.

There is industrial wrong in the land. Men, women and children toil and suffer. The conditions of their labor and their lives are bad. Their wages are small. They are unorganized and in many respects they are helpless. Most of them are the employees of the great interests in whose behalf the tariff law was written.

Addressing themselves to this situation, Mr. Roosevelt and his followers make a moving appeal to the sympathetic. They promise to use money secured by taxation for the relief of the needy. They promise by law to compel employers to be considerate. They promise to create mercy and charity by act of Congress in places where other acts of Congress designed to stimulate these same impulses are now a dead letter. But they do not promise to do away with the monopolies created and sustained by the tariff. They merely seek a fairer division of the plunder.

There is injustice in the land.
The few tax the many. The few make laws for their own enrichment. The few control government. The few debase political parties. The few give millions to campaign funds and get their pay in unfair laws, in laws enforced with partiality, in laws that are not enforced at all. The few have taken refuge behind the tariff law and in the trusts. Some of them who favor Mr. Taft are defiant. Some of them who favor Mr. Roosevelt are willing to negotiate. Not one of them offers to surrender.

Considering this state of affairs, Woodrow Wilson and his followers say that there is something higher and nobler than material wealth and something more desirable than charity, public or private. That is freedom. That is justice. That is equal rights.
That is independence. That is self-reliance. That is public service as contrasted with the degra-Macaulay, 10 N. E. "WHO IS THIS SITTING ON MY CHEST"

From Speech by Woodrow Wilson dation of self-interest and self-deception.

The campaign now closing crystallizes itself in this simple way. Mr. Taft would leave things as they are. Mr. Roosevelt would leave things as they are, although he would have those who have profited by monopoly and oppression made secure for a greater show of charity. Mr. Wilson would have justice—justice that destroys monopoly, uproots privilege, establishes equality, dignifies manhood and makes alms-giving by state and nation unnecessary.

There can be no social justice that does not rest upon political justice. We cannot hide crime behind benevolence. We cannot glorify monopoly and tyranny without degrading citizenship.
We cannot be subject to masters in government, in finance, in industry, and be free.

BIG INCREASE IN TRUSTS SINCE
MCKINLEY'S DAY

Chicago, Oct. 25.—Senator James
A. O'Gorman of New York made two speeches here tonight urging the election of Governor Wilson. He said: "When McKinley died the total amount of securities issued by corporations amounted to less than $4-000,000,000. Now the total capitalization of the monopolies that oppress the people is more than $30-000,000,000. The encroachments of the powerful few on the rights of the many go unchecked. Monopolies must be destroyed, not licensed to prey."

No matter how hard times are, 50 years hence these will be "the good old times."

HARNES HORSES AT FALL RACE MEETING
FURNISH FINE SPORT

The second day's meeting of the Newark Driving Park Association was witnessed by a fair sized crowd and the two races on the card were thoroughly enjoyed. The 2:23 pace was declared off by the management as only two horses appeared on the track when the race was called.
There had been seven entries for the race but at the last moment the owners withdrew all but two of them.
The weather Friday was ideal and the track was in excellent shape. In the 2:23 trot, the first event on the program, there were eleven starters and it kept the talent guessing to pick the winners of the different heats. Victor-elect, and John Mc-Call were the favorites and the latter horse finished first in the first heat with the Heisey entry second.
After the heat several drivers complained to the judges that they had entered their horses in a trotting race not to go against the jumpers and requested that they keep their eagle optics on the fast Pittsburg gray gelding. The finish of the first heat was a thriller as the horse were bunched for the entire going and at the home stretch there was not over seven lengths difference between the first and last horse.

In the second heat of the 2:23 trot a surprise was sprung when Pentucket, who had finished eighth in the previous heat, stuck her nose under the wire ahead of Victor-Elect. The talent had gotten down on the latter, picking him for the good thing of the day but they were sorely disappointed when the game little mare from the Matthews stable at River Forest, Ill., showed them all the way. John McCall was sent back to last position for giving an exhibition of the different gaits which he had under his control. Getting a start in the last position he finished second in the next heat displaying a burst of speed that clearly demonstrated his gameness.

Pentucket captured the long end of the purse by winning the next two heats, John McCall finishing second, Victor Elect third and La-netta J., fourth.

The 2:19 trot was easy for Robert Jones, Charlie Karns' entry from Canal Dover and he pulled down the first money in one, two, three order.
Tom Reed was second in the same

ROYAL Baking Powder Absolutely Pure

There is a remarkable interest in Home Baking and Cooking throughout the land.

This is a most encouraging indication that the battle against impure, improper food is going to be won.

The credit for the victory will belong to the women of the country.

Home cooking has the backing of science and the approval of fashion. It adds to housekeeping a pride; to our food, healthfulness.

It is acknowledged by experts, and by the women who know, that the best cooking in the world to-day is with the aid of Royal Baking Powder.

themums were used throughout the rooms. The time was spent with cards. A luncheon was served.

Mr. George Bennett was the honor guest at a farewell party Wednesday evening at the home of Elwyn Davies in West Church street. The decorations were appropriate to the season, being just autumn and black cats. The table had as its centerpiece a huge pumpkin from which yellow and white ribbons ran to each plate and hand-painted place cards seated each guest. The favors were in the form of yellow cats on stick pins.

The following enjoyed Elwyn's hospitality: Messrs. George Bennett, John Fuller, Fred Browne, Orville Rawlings, Cyril Zentmeyer, Frank Taggart, Charles H. Elwyn Davies. It was indeed with a great deal of regret that the boys bid George goodbye—good luck.

The Investigators' club was entertained this week by Mrs. Fred Fulton at her home west of the city. The following program was given:

Address, Mrs. Samuel Sachs.
Assistants, Mrs. Kidwell, Mrs. Weaver.

Mrs. Eugene Ball, who was a delegate to the Federation of Women's Clubs at Athens, gave a report.

Mrs. Stephan, critic.

Hugh Way, pastor of the First Church of Christ, Mr. and Mrs. Smith will make their home in Newark, where they will have the felicitations of friends.—Times-Recorder, Zanesville.

In the attic, which was arranged as a gypsy camp, the for-nunes were told. After a number of Halloween games a luncheon was served in the dining room. The dining place cards were attached by yellow ribbon to a miniature cornfield in the center of the table, in which was hidden, a key to each guest's fortune.

Why He Took Pills

HE TOOK a seat in the dining car, ran his eye hastily over the menu, quickly wrote on the card what he wanted, drank a glass of ice-water the waiter brought, and then tapped impatiently on the table with his finger-tips, until his orange appeared.

In seemingly about two mouthfuls, the orange was gone; and he leaned back in his chair and watched for the waiter to bring his cereal, his expression growing more and more annoyed as the seconds slipped by.

Finally the cereal appeared, a huge bowl of it.

"Don't be so long bringing my breakfast," he said to the waiter.

"No sir," said the waiter, and started on a trot down the car-aisle.

The man poured some cream over his cereal, dived into it, and emerged in the course of a few minutes, breathless, but with the cereal disposed of.

Then he drew from his pocket, a small bottle and took some pills.

The program completed so far, he once more leaned back in his chair and watched impatiently for the waiter.

In a few minutes the waiter came scurrying down the aisle with a huge tray, laden with an enormous platter containing two large pieces of ham and three eggs, a plate piled high with several kinds of hot rolls and bread, a dish of potatoes and a pot of coffee.

The man fell upon them, and before one could remove a horrified yet fascinated gaze, every dish was cleared. Only once did he pause, and that was to take another bottle of pills from another pocket and dissolve six in his coffee.

The breakfast dash done, he impatiently waved aside the finger-bowl, paid his bill, and went back into the Pullman to spend the rest of the morning looking out the window and wondering why the train didn't go faster.

Meanwhile, his poor digestion, spurred by pills, was trying to overtake the food that had passed it on the high gear. But it never did, and it never will. Not all the pills made in Detroit—and the sight-seeing car conductor said more pills were made in Detroit than in all the other cities of the Union put together—can enable that man's digestion to keep up with that rate of eating. What he needs is not pills, but a new internal arrangement, whereby all the processes of digestion can be done at one and the same time, after the food is swallowed.

And since necessity and environment bring about changes, perhaps this is the sort of digestive apparatus that will in time be evolved.

Meanwhile, however, he, and others like him, will continue to keep the industry of Detroit flourishing, and to wonder vaguely, when they take time for it, why they suffer so from indigestion.

ONE CAUSE OF BAD COMPLEXION—THE CURE

(From Family Physician.)

"Look at a section of skin under the microscope and you will readily understand why cosmetics generally impair the complexion," says Dr. H. Robert MacKenzie. "The skin, smooth as it looks to the naked eye, under the glass exhibits a lace-work of tiny holes, mouths of myriads of little glands. To keep the skin healthy these holes must be unobstructed, that the perspiration and natural oil can have free outlet. Should the glands be blocked up with irritating, gritty particles, a morbid result of using powders and creams. Nature retaliates by causing sallowness, roughness, blotches or pimples. The cure for all complexion troubles is a simple one. It is to keep the pores of the skin free from the daily accumulation of impurities, also, to keep the complexion clear and healthy. This produces a natural, healthy youthful complexion. One ounce of this way to be had at any drug store usually suffices to rejuvenate the poorest complexion. It is put on nightly like cold cream and washed off morning." (Advertisement.)

BEAUTIFUL HAIR AT SMALL COST

A Simple Remedy Beautifies the Hair, Cures Dandruff, Stops Falling Hair.

What a pity it is to see so many people with thin, wispy hair, faded or streaked with gray, and realize that most of these people might have soft, glossy, abundant hair of beautiful color and lustre if they would but use the proper treatment. There is no necessity for gray hair under sixty-five years of age, and there is no excuse for anyone, young or old, having thin, straggling hair, either full of dandruff, or heavy and rank smelling with excess of oil.

You can bring back the natural color of your hair in a few days and forever rid yourself of any dandruff and loose hairs, and make your hair grow strong and beautiful by using Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy. For generations common garden Sage has been used for restoring and preserving the color of the hair. Specialists as being excellent for the treatment of hair and scalp troubles. If you are troubled with dandruff, or itching scalp, or if your hair is losing its color or coming out, get a fifty-cent bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur from your druggist and notice the improvement in the appearance of your hair after a few days' treatment.

AMERICAN HOUSEHOLD ARTICLES SOLD CHEAPER ABROAD THAN IN AMERICA

How the American Consumer is Robbed by the Protected Interests of His Own Country

Tariff Reform Committee Gives Examples of Discrimination Practised Against American Consumers
By Tariff-Favored Manufacturers Selling Cheaper to Foreigners.

By BYRON W. HOLT,
Chairman of the Tariff Reform Committee of the Reform Club.

With the higher duties of the Dingley bill, in 1897, and the era of trusts and higher prices (at home) that then began, the practice of selling goods at lower prices for export grew more rapidly with our growing export trade. So dictatorial in fixing high prices at home and so bold in selling their products at greatly reduced prices to foreigners had the protected steel trusts become in 1900 that even the McKinley high-tariff administration got frightened at the extent of these vicious practices and decided to issue an official warning to the trusts. This was done in a special article on iron and steel in the report of the Bureau of Statistics on commerce and finance for August, 1909.

The McKinley administration virtually "read the riot act" to the bold steel combinations that were playing fast and loose with American consumers. The steel manufacturers were told that their policy of selling goods at lower prices to foreigners was short-sighted, and would, if continued, surely result in the removal of all tariff duties. It especially blamed the American Steel and Wire Company for advancing Newark, N. J., the American carpenter pays 36 per cent more than the price to the Canadian carpenter. A mortising machine made by the W. F. & John Barnes Company in Rockford, Ill., costs the American builder who favors tariff for revenue only, as well as the deluded protectionist, 21 per cent more than the export price of the same article to any builder beyond the country's boundaries. The American apprentice who buys a scroll saw from this company also has to pay 21 per cent more than it sells for abroad.

An eight-horse power Geiser stationary gasoline engine made in Waynesboro, Pa., costs the American builder, even if he can get it at wholesale, $403.75, while for export it sells for $332.50. The same discrimination of 22 per cent in favor of the foreign purchaser applies to this company's gasoline pump at $10.50 for export and $12.75 for home use.

Tax on Workman's Tools.
Plumbs and levels (30 inches) made by the National Saw Company, Newark, N. J., cost 37 per cent more; their plastering trowels (11 inches) 33 per cent more and their brick trowels 35 per cent more to Americans than they charge for export.

"Protection" for the American workman is placed at 45 per cent on these tools for earning a living. Where the protection for the workman comes in no one but the manufacturers of the protected articles can see, and they can see it clearly enough to contribute generously to the campaign fund of the Republican party and to leagues working for high protective tariffs.

The domestic price of a machinist's vice No. 72, manufactured by the Prentiss Vice Company, at Watertown, N. Y., is 21 per cent higher than the export price. This company charges wholesale the American mechanic $9 for its combination pipe vice No. 712, which it sells for export for $6.

Machinists' hammers (2 pounds) manufactured by the Henry Cheney Hammer Company of Little Falls, N. Y., cost machinists here $1.51 nearly one-third more than the export price per dozen.

The Henry Cheney Hammer Company of Little Falls, N. Y., charges horseshoers a fifth more than their export price for farriers' hammers, while the United States Horseshoe Company, at Erie Pa., also makes horseshoers here pay a fifth more than its export price for steel horseshoes, and nearly a third more than its export price for iron horseshoes.

Plumber Taught to Charge.
The National Saw Co., located at Newark, N. J., charges the American plumber for his 16-inch saws $6.32 a dozen at wholesale, 37 per cent more than its export price. Shall we blame the plumber for doing as he is done, or teach him better and help ourselves by not letting him be done out of two-fifths more than his tools are worth—through repealing protective duties?

The American carriage maker pays $4.05 for a thousand Eagle tire bolts 1-4x3 inches, at wholesale, instead of $2.90, the export price, or 40 per cent more, and a third more for Eagle carriage bolts, made by the Columbus Bolt Company, in Ohio.

The widow who strives to support her children by knitting hose with Branson's knitting machine, made by the Branson Machine Company, in Philadelphia, must pay, even if she gets the wholesale price, $22.50 for her machine, nearly a fifth more than the export price of $19, and this $3.50 means more than the widow's mite to her. A vote for high protective duties is a vote to rob widows in more ways than one.

Cheaper tools and machinery lessen the cost of production and make cheaper costs possible.

Protectionists claim they want to protect American wage earners against cheap labor and cheap production abroad, yet last year American manufacturers exported over $110,000,000 worth of machinery and tools, most of this at lower prices than those charged Americans and they so willfully helped foreign competitors to produce more cheaply than Americans. We exported $3,167,517 worth of tools and $1,137,187 worth of saws in 1911, but the prohibitive duty kept us from importing any tools.

The total value of machines and machinery imported in 1911 was $7,118,630, on which the average duty was 40.77 per cent.

THE HUMAN PROCESSION

By O. Terrence.

C. W. POST 38 TOMORROW, FAKER OR PHILANTHROPIST?

Charles William Post of Battle Creek, originator of the cereal "brain food" and coffee substitute industries, was born in Springfield, Ill., fifty-eight years ago tomorrow. His biography could best be written by Robert Collier or Samuel Gompers, and might interesting reading it would make—although perhaps not so entertaining as would be an account of the careers of Mr. Collier and Mr. Gompers, as set down by Mr. Post. Reading the remarks these gentlemen have passed on each other is, to me, more amusing than a Donnybrook Fair.

"Faker," "charlatan," and "menace to the public health" are some of the milder characterizations of the Battle Creek man, as supplied by his enemies; "philanthropist," "distinguished scientist," and "benefactor of humanity," the least flattering praise of his equally multitudinous admirers.

For one thing, at least, you may pin a bouquet on Mr. Post: He has not stopped to guile and threats to secure free publicity for his views on labor unions, but has paid cash at regular advertising rates.

It is as an exponent of what he calls "industrial freedom" and an opponent of labor unions that Mr. Post has gained his greatest fame. He has spent hundreds of thousands of dollars for newspaper broadsides attacking what he terms the "labor trust." He can think of more vituperative terms to apply to labor leaders than General Oiler of Los Angeles, which, as they say in the street, is "going quite some." Mr. Post honestly clings to the opinion that the interests of employer and workmen are identical. Without the intervention of walking delegates and pestiferous agitators, the manufacturer would gladly pay whatever the employees ask.

and the workers willingly accept whatever the employer offers, and the lion and the lamb would lie down together. "Scab," originally applied as an epithet, is to Mr. Post a synonym for saint.

Mr. Post was educated at the University of Illinois, but did not graduate. His first business experience was as a partner in a hardware concern. Later he became a traveling man, and the manager of a plow factory in the Illinois capital city. Intensely active and of a nervous, high-strung temperament, Post was not one of those who watched the clock. He toiled sixteen hours a day, if necessary, and sometimes when it was not the moral is not the conventional one. Instead of becoming a partner in the concern, and marrying the daughter of the president of the corporation, his industry was rewarded with a physical and mental breakdown. At thirty he was the wreck of a man, an invalid with health shattered apparently beyond repair.

For seven years he traveled about, studying medicine, hygiene and dietetics, and investigating various treatments and "cures." Then as now, Battle Creek, Mich., was famed as a health resort, and he finally settled there and started the business which has made him a multi-millionaire.

The product that made Mocha and Java famous and Brazil prosperous Mr. Post hates with all his might, with such hate as is left over from Collier and Hagood and Gompers, et al. That is his business. The dream of Post is to see the day when all labor unions are disrupted, all "agitators" in jail, Collier's Weekly in the bankruptcy courts, and all the world happy and healthy drinking.

PLANTING A NEW ORCHARD

I have purchased about twenty acres of land in northern Ohio and propose to set out some peach trees next spring, probably 1000 trees. I also thought of setting out cherries, apples, red raspberries and a few currants. Suggestions as to the preparation of the soil and the varieties of fruits best suited to the climate will be appreciated.

M. D. F.
It is quite necessary that the soil be thoroughly prepared before the trees are planted just as should be done for any of the farm crops. It would be well to turn up a crop of clover, cow peas, vetch, or possibly some rye in the fall and turn it under in the spring, to insure an abundance of humus in the soil. It is quite feasible to plant apples in sod and practice the sod-mulch system without cultivation, but in northern Ohio the cover crop system is much to be preferred.

Below are suggested some varieties of fruit which could be grown successfully. The apples given are in the order of their ripening: Yellow transparent, Duchess of Oldenburg, Maiden Blush, Wealthy, Grimes Golden, Jonathan, Stayman Winesap, Stark, Gano, McIntosh, Baldwin, Sutton Beauty, Hubbardston, Warner, Rhode Island Greening. Four or five, or possibly six, would be all that would be recommended for a commercial orchard as a few varieties can be handled much more satisfactorily than a large number. For sour cherries the Early Richmond, Large Montmorency, and English Morella are suggested, and for sweet cherries, Ida, Governor Wood and Napoleon. For peaches the Carmen, Champion, Elberta, Bears

If you carry a mattress upstairs, you can take that as an indication that you are in good physical condition.

Speaking of leisure time, it is the player in a three-handed billiard game who has it.

Snook and Salway are good. Some of the new kinds that are highly recommended are the Fitzgerald, New Prolific and Day's Nonpareil. Probably the Cuthbert and King red raspberries would do as well as any and the London Market and the Fay Prolific currants.

How to Abolish Socialism

By CHARLES STELZLE

THE American workman is the most highly skilled workman in the world. He is the most highly paid workman in the world. But compared with what he produces he is the poorest paid workman in the world. With us it is not so much a question of production. It is a matter of distribution. It is not a question as to whether the workman is receiving higher wages than he received fifty years ago. It is a question as to whether he is receiving a just share of the common product of capital and labor. This is the labor question in a nutshell, and we cannot evade it. The average workman isn't concerned about a general dividing up of all wealth, but he does insist that in the future he shall be given a square deal. He doesn't want charity. He wants work, and he wants justice. In this he is to be commended. There are some people who are tremendously disturbed about the growth of socialism, and they are seeking to destroy it. But socialism cannot be snuffed out or bluffed out or laughed out. The only way to abolish socialism is to abolish the conditions which have given rise to socialism. We need not discuss the merits of socialism, but it is significant that there are today 25,000,000 Socialists throughout the world, 10,000,000 of whom have cast their ballots for Socialist candidates. There are over 1,000 socialistic officeholders in American municipalities and townships. Their literature seems to appeal to the man on the street. They conduct numberless street meetings. They believe in the job, and they are absolutely confident that they will win. We may disagree with the Socialist with regard to his proposed remedy for bad social conditions, but we may work with him and with all others in pointing out the evils of the present economic and political systems. In the end there will be no one answer to the social question, but many, but all will be religious, for the social problem is at heart a religious problem. Therefore the church will have an important part in its solution.

OWNERSHIP OF WEALTH IN THE U.S. AND GROWTH OF SOCIALISM

APPLES —Prospect compared with last year

With the actual results of harvest now definitely known Ohio's present wheat production is one of the poorest recorded by this department. The harvest figures here presented are based on the area returned by township assessors less the estimated area plowed up as reported by our official correspondents. No doubt the total production will show some increase over the estimate now reported.
The harvest is now estimated at 10,154,425 bushels, an average production of but ten bushels per acre. While this is somewhat better than earlier reports indicated, it practically means failure. The wheat generally is of poor quality. The state average is estimated at 76 per cent. One year ago quality was reported at 94 per cent, with a total estimated production of 31,992,382 bushels. Of the crop of 1911, it is estimated that 10 per cent still remains in producers' hands. Correspondents report that in some sections of state rains have retarded seeding. Many note the fact that the 1913 area will not be as great as the one just harvested.
Oats show a bumper production. The harvest being estimated at 68,711,314 bushels. This is an increase of approximately 37,000,000 bushels over the estimated crop of 1911. The average production per acre is reported at 44 bushels, as against 31 bushels one year ago. The quality of the grain is excellent.
Rye and barley productions also show healthy increases over last year. Corn prospects are most flattering. The present prospect is estimated at 96 per cent based upon 35 bushels per acre representing 100 per cent. On the corresponding date one year ago the prospect was estimated at 91 per cent. As the area planted is much greater than in 1911 the harvest should be most bountiful. The crop is late in maturing, due to cool wet weather in July and late planting.
Reports indicate that the yield of potatoes will be much greater than that of last year. Correspondents estimate the present yield at 124 per cent in comparison with 1911. In the northeast section of state damage is reported by rot and grub worm.
The crop of apple will fall far short of the excellent harvest of last year. In comparison with that crop the present estimate is 63 per cent.

WHICH CANDIDATE WILL RUN THIRD?

Many Answers to This Frequently Heard Question.

THIRD TICKET IS A FACTOR

Senator Hoke Smith Fears the Election May Be Thrown Into Congress, but Democrats Generally Scout the Idea of Their Candidate Losing When He Starts With 180 Votes.

By ARTHUR W. DUNN.
Washington, Oct. 26.—[Special].—“Who will run third?” is a question frequently heard when the political situation is under consideration. And there are all kinds of answers, mostly of the kind which says “if” this or that happens then such and such a candidate will be third in the race. I have heard no one say that Governor Wilson will run third. In fact, when a man starts with 180 electoral votes sure, as in the case of the Democratic candidate this year, it would be absurd to say that he is likely to be last in the three cornered fight that is in progress. Bryan had 162 votes four years ago and did not carry Missouri. Since then there has been an increase in the apportionment, and it is not going outside of conservatism to allow Wilson 180.

May Go to the House.
There are men who still fear that the election may go to the house and then on to the senate. Senator Hoke Smith of Georgia, who has been campaigning in the west, said that he feared that “Roosevelt might carry a few big states and pick up enough smaller states to prevent a choice by the electors.” And then the senator proceeded to show how impossible it was for Wilson to be defeated because he would carry enough western states to make his election sure. Senator Smith says Wilson will carry Ohio, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Nebraska, with a show of getting South Dakota.

If Smith is right, then there is no danger of the election going to the house of representatives. An innovation.
The fact that a third ticket cuts a figure in the canvass is an innovation, nothing like it having occurred since 1890. There have been third tickets, and in 1892 General Weaver polled a number of electoral votes, but he was never a factor in the race. Four years later if the third party—then called Populists—had been able to run independent of Bryan it would have cut a big figure in the result, and it might have been dominant at this time. But this is the first time in fifty years that politicians have had to figure on the third ticket as an important factor in the returns. This year everything depends, according to quite a number of politicians, on the vote cast for the third ticket.

Correspondents Guessing.
The newspaper correspondents who have been making a tour of the country for the purpose of ascertaining the situation are doing quite a lot of guessing. They say so themselves and say it is necessary on account of the mixed conditions which they find and the claims which different men make. One correspondent who went through a number of states gave it as his opinion that Illinois, Michigan and Minnesota would go for Roosevelt and that Indiana, Iowa, Kansas and Nebraska would go for Wilson. He added that he might have guessed wrong.

If he is right it looks rather strange, for all those states have for years been in the Republican column. Bull Moose in Colorado.
I. E. Stevens of Colorado has been interesting himself in Colorado politics for years and is now a rampant Roosevelt man. He says Roosevelt will carry Colorado and goes even farther and says that he will give the country many surprises. He told about “straw votes” he had taken on trains coming east, and in nearly every instance Roosevelt had a plurality.

Debs is Running.
Eugene V. Debs is running for president. We had him here some time ago and although he will get no votes in Washington he talked to a large audience. Debs received 420,000 votes four years ago and expects to treble that vote this year. He may do so. The Debs vote may be a factor if there is such a close election as predicted. Debs had more than 38,000 in New York and about 34,000 in Pennsylvania four years ago. That number of votes might be useful to almost any of the three candidates on election day.

Martin W. Littleton is not coming back to congress, and he does not expect to enter public life again. “These are the days of the ‘irreducible minimum’ in politics,” he remarked to a few friends the other day. But he did not explain what he meant. My inference was that he thought a number of small men were running for big offices. Did Crane Whisper It?
Some one told me, or else I dreamed it, that W. Murray Crane told a Democratic senator that there was nothing to the Taft campaign in Massachusetts, that Wilson had things his own way and that the legislature would go to the Democrats. If Crane told anybody that tale he whispered it and placed the seat of confidence upon the party to whom it was told.

Pools jump at conclusions, but the wise run the other way.

The regular meeting of Newark Trades and Labor Assembly will be tomorrow morning (Sunday) at nine o'clock. There will be a treat for all delegates at this session.

The Labor day committee will make its final report at this meeting and many other committees will make their quarterly reports. It is the wish of the officers to have all delegates present.

The O. S. F. of Labor have just closed their annual session and our delegate, Bro. W. M. Morgan, will have a very comprehensive report ready for you and this should interest all trade unionists.

The last meeting of the assembly, Oct. 13, was well attended, and great interest manifested by all present. All officers were present except First Vice President Bro. Conn and Guard Bro. Lang. The Carpenters grievance was turned over to the Teamsters' Union for final settlement.

Bro. Riggs, president of local Typographical Union, was introduced and made us a very fine speech. In closing his address he invited the Assembly to join Union No. 69 and attend the Lyon Tabernacle tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock, it being the day set each year to talk about and explain the great white plague.

PRICE COLLIER
Author of “England and the English from an American Point of View.”

Price Collier was educated at Geneva, Leipzig and Harvard. He has been a great traveler, a lover of outdoor sports and served as an officer in the U. S. Navy during the Spanish-American War. The articles on “England and the English from an American Point of View” created an international sensation. His new series on “Germany and the Germans from an American Point of View” begins in the November Scribner. The first article is a remarkable character study of “The Kaiser,” a name that has been applied to the German Emperor. Its frank criticism yet evident fairness and spirit of real friendliness, together with its strong Americanism, will make it the subject of discussion all over the world.

WOMAN IN THE NOVEMBER CENTURY.

A group of articles of interest to women and all interested in woman's advancement will be found in the November Century. Edith Rickert writes of “The Fraternity Idea Among College Women,” pointing out both the good and the bad points of the system. Ethel Dean Rockwell discusses “The Feminist of France,” an article that shows how rapidly the French woman is acquiring independence although the ballot is only a secondary demand. Millicent Garrett Fawcett, president of the National (British) Union of Suffrage societies, writes against violence in the suffrage movement and declares that violence at this time would be of incalculable harm to the cause in England.

HEALTH HINT FOR TODAY.

Varied Advice.
For sore throat apply a cloth wrung out of cold water.
Baked bananas are more nutritious than the raw fruit and are often used by physicians in cases of fever.
Bunions and corns may be cured by nightly applications of iodine and the wearing of easy fitting shoes.
Red lips cannot be acquired artificially. They usually indicate good health and a large quantity of iron in the blood.
Gas on the stomach, causing bloating and a feeling of stiffness after eating, is not always caused by the thing eaten, but often by the stomach nerves, says a physician.
One should never try to starve the stomach into health, for only good blood can cure it, and good blood comes from good food, plenty of fresh air and good digestion. The stomach poisons itself through weakness and inaction.
Persons subject to tonsillitis should make an absolute rule of keeping the feet warm and dry, and the neck and chest should be sponged regularly with cold water. Swaddling the neck in too much clothing only tends to increase the susceptibility to sore throat.

WONDERFUL CURE OF SCALP DISEASE

Hair Came Out in Patches, Goodhair Soap Brought Prompt Relief.

"I have had Eczema on my scalp for twenty years. Have doctored with several doctors, but with no permanent good results. The first time I used Goodhair Soap my hair came out in patches as large as a silver half dollar. I was scared and thought I was going to have my hair fall out. If I continued to use the soap, I was told it was only the dead hairs that had come away. I continued to use the Soap, and now, after three months, all these bald spots are covered with a good growth. My hair is better than ever. I have no Eczema, and my scalp never itches."

Are the Fly and Mosquito Dangerous?

The fly, with its spongy feet, collects the invisible germs of diseases, spreads them over our food and poisons us with typhoid and cholera. The mosquito with its bite injects into our veins malaria and yellow fever. The bacteria of consumption, or grip, are everywhere present for us to breathe into our lungs. The blood which flows through our veins and arteries is our protection. It should contain healthy red and white blood corpuscles—capable of warding off these disease germs. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is a blood medicine and alterative, made entirely without alcohol, a pure glyceric extract of bloodroot, golden seal, Oregon grape root, queen's root, mandrake and stone root, which has enjoyed a good reputation for over forty years. The refreshing influence of this extract is like Nature's influence—the blood is bathed in the tonic which gives life to the blood—the vital fires of the body burn brighter and their increased activity consumes the tissue rubbish which has accumulated during the winter.

NEWARK HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

Mr. Hawkins, Mr. Barnes, and Mr. Dickerson visited the Eastern Ohio Teachers' Association which was in session yesterday and today at Coshocton.

Instead of attending the Association meeting at Coshocton four of the Zanesville High school teachers, Miss Granger, Miss Watson, Miss Wright, and Miss Wrigley visited our school yesterday and were much pleased with the work.

Unfortunately for the pupils it rained Tuesday and so the pleasure of the half holiday caused by the October meeting of the City Institute was diminished somewhat. The teachers thoroughly enjoyed the address given by Superintendent Huber of Pittsburg.

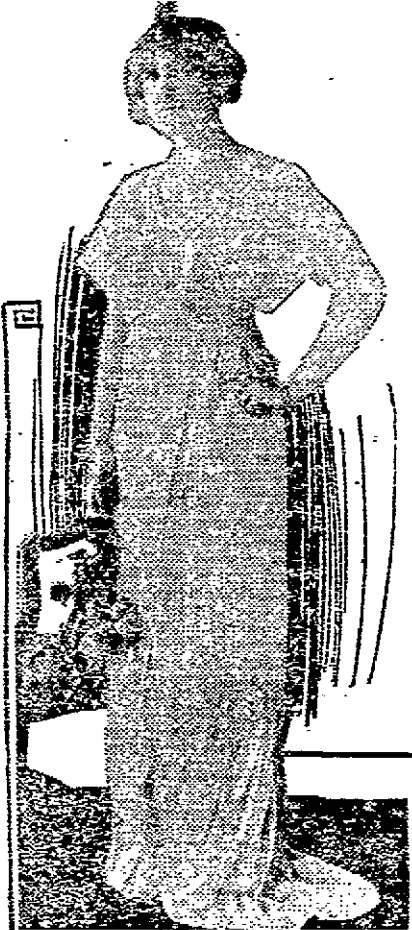

Mr. Galbreath, former state librarian and secretary of the Constitutional convention, was in Newark Wednesday. He gave a short but instructive talk on the Constitutional convention of Ohio to Mr. Tait's seventh period class in American History and Civics. It is a pity that all the pupils taking this subject were unable to hear him.

A short literary program was given before the school yesterday morning by the Literary society of the Junior class. The following program was rendered: Violin solo, "The Witches' Dance," Donald Kissane; The Witches' Scene from Macbeth, Mildred Gore, Opal Williams, Mary Jones and Fern Neibarger; Reading, "All Hallowe'en," Philip Rhodes; Recitation, "Little Orphan," Anna Rush; Original Story, In October, written by Willa McCort, read by Mary Strawn.

In times past Dr. Bennett has been a frequent and welcome visitor to our school. It was therefore with mixed pleasure and sorrow that we listened to him in chapel on Wednesday, for we were sorry to think that this was probably his last talk to us and we were pleased that his last address was his best.

Another guest at chapel on Wednesday was the librarian of Miami University. We are always pleased to have representatives from the different colleges learn by actual contact what our school is doing.

FATHER O'BOYLAN ON THE TABERNACLE SUNDAY EVENING

The rector of St. Francis de Sales church will deliver a friendly discourse tomorrow (Sunday), at 7 p. m. on the reason why Catholics could not take part in the tabernacle exercises. This will be the first of a series of discourses in the regular Fall lectures. The speaker will first give some general views on the present Protestant revival, and then proceed to a brief analysis of some of the doctrines taught by the evangelist who is conducting the meetings. Many of these are approved by the Catholic church, but some are diametrically opposed to her teachings and dogmas. The reply to the latter will be explanatory, rather than controversial, and nothing will be said that can hurt the feelings of any fair mind. All who wish to be present are cordially invited. In explanation of the reason why he has decided to speak of the tabernacle at all, Father O'Boylan says that he wishes to put a stop to certain false reports that some thoughtless people are manufacturing and spreading around in what they think to be a very amusing way, but which he regards as hurtful to religion.

NEWBRO'S HERPICIDE

The Original Dandruff Germ Destroyer

Normally, everyone should have good hair, and were it not for unnatural conditions existing in the scalp, luxuriant, fluffy hair would be the rule rather than the exception.

Dry, lustreless hair is due to dandruff caused by an invisible microbic growth or germ. The regular and consistent use of HERPICIDE removes the dandruff scale, kills the germ and keeps the hair and scalp in a clean, sanitary condition. It acts as a preserver of the hair, prevents it falling out and stops itching of the scalp almost instantly. Herpicide has a most delightful odor, contains no grease and does not stain or dye.

If it is results you want, insist upon having Newbro's Herpicide and not an off brand article. Applications at the better barber shops and hair dressing parlors.

Saved By His Wife:

She's a wise woman who knows just what to do when her husband's life is in danger, but Mrs. R. J. Flint, Braintree, Vt., is of that kind. "She insisted on my using Dr. King's New Discovery," writes Mr. F., "for a dreadful cough, when I was so weak my friends all thought I had only a short time to live, and it completely cured me." A quick cure for coughs and colds—it's the most safe and reliable medicine for many throat and lung troubles—grip, bronchitis, croup, whooping cough, quinsy, tonsillitis, hemorrhages. A trial will convince you. 50 cents and $1.00. Guaranteed by F. D. Hall.

with a certain status in the eye of God, one of guiltlessness and innocence. God startled him out of his slumber, and while in that state he committed the trespass which led to his fall, which is recorded in Genesis.

"What followed that? According to the record, and this is the only authentic record we have, God proceeded to deal with men in three ways. The first two of these ways are alike in kind or quality. The third is different in a sense from the other two.

Natural Law First.

"In the first two ways, he dealt according to natural principles, or the principles of natural law. I am putting it in that form to anticipate the question that naturally comes up in the mind of every man. Why is it necessary for God to deal with the evils of men in a supernatural way? In anticipation of that question, which I hope to take up in a few moments, I put it this way: That God tried natural methods first, those methods that are in accord with our idea of consistency. He dealt with man through the law first.

"What was the first law? It was the law of conscience. After man fell, the first crime was that of fratricide. The guilty one came, realizing his guilt and his responsibility for it, said to God 'that the hand of every man would be raised against him. God said, 'No. We will put the human race under conscience. You see the heinousness of your guilt, and you have an opportunity right at your own door to cleanse yourself and make yourself right with Me. We will let every man be his own conscience.' So you find that between the time of the fall of Adam and the flood, there was no law, so far as we know. God hadn't authorized or sanctioned any human situation in the law that men might sin by.

"We find that at the time of Noah the earth was filled with vice and riotousness. So wicked had men become that the situation of the race, from the moral standpoint, was utterly hopeless, and God had to destroy the race and start them over again.

"What followed the flood? The record is that God, after the flood had disappeared, permitted Noah again to take his place on the face of the earth. That God told him and his family to be fruitful and multiply. He laid down this law: 'Thou shalt not shed the blood of man, and I will require his blood, both at the hand of man and beast.'

Believes in Death Penalty.

"Brothers, do you know that God has never abolished capital punishment for murder? I trust I am not speaking in any harsh or inhuman, unchristian spirit, but I say that the trials of justice come nearer meeting the favor of Almighty God when 12 men, good and true, bring in a verdict of guilty, to be followed by the electric chair. When one man imbrues his hands in the blood of his fellow man, he must die in the process of human justice."

The speaker then referred briefly to the verdict in the Becker case, finding commendation for the jurors in their verdict in what seems from this distance, to be a case of undoubted guilt.

"Very well, then, God gave us that law," said Judge Holloway. "The only law I lay upon you, he says, is: 'Thou shalt have regard for the life of man and beast.' God put his finger there on the wasteful destruction of the life of animals."

"And right along with the record showing Nimrod to have been a mighty hunter of the earth, we find the human race setting up this tower of Babel as a token of their spirit of self-reliance and a disposition to get away from God and reliance upon God."

The speaker then discussed the codification of the laws by Moses, and brought his argument to the third point of his appeal, "that God found it necessary to deal with man from the supernatural standpoint." He showed that there is really nothing new in the arts, sciences or professions of today, that we are not putting anything into the record of civilization from our generation.

"Don't you see that this rather sets at naught the argument that man is a product of evolution?" asked Judge Holloway. "If he is, we are reverting to type. In the matter of morals, who is ever the equal of Jesus Christ? Suppose he is the son of Joseph and Mary. Who has ever approached him? There is nothing remarkable in the language that Jesus uses. There isn't a word that the simplest minds that never has a man spoken like this man."

"What is the trouble with our age? What don't we do these things? What is the difficulty today?" asked the speaker, as he began the story of a man arrested for stealing a bull and incidentally killed a man during the operation of the theft. It happened over the Texas border during the year immediately following the civil war, when justices of the peace were none too careful about the limitation of their jurisdiction. Brought before a negro justice on the Arkansas side of the line, he was advised that he could be tried under either the Arkansas or Texas laws. The former fined a man for sealing a bull yearling and hung him for killing a man; the Texas laws fined him for killing the man and hung him for stealing the yearling.

The Age of Materialism.

"We are living in an age when a man is fined for killing his fellow man but he hung if he trespasses the rights of property," commented the preacher-lawyer. "We are living in such a grossly materialistic age that we subject everything to the establishment and protection of property rights."

"For a number of years," he continued, "I was one of the smaller attorneys for the Big Four road, and our office also had its share in the defence of negligence cases, both for that road and for factories. The result of my experience along this line led me to regard every fellow who brought action for damages as a blackmailer seeking to use the machinery of the law to hold up the corporations.

"I was glad when I got loose from that practice, that part of the practice of the profession, and got more and more with the fellows who were on the outside, and could understand that after all there were meritorious actions brought in the courts for personal injuries." The speaker then turned his attention for the moment to a consideration of political platforms, collectively. "I don't want to stir up any controversy," he said, "but what do they appeal to? The pocket-book! The present prosperous condition of the people! We are losing sight of the underlying principles that mean the perpetuity of government that is worth living under."

"We are living in a materialistic age. The thinkers of the age are perfectly appalled at the spirit of restlessness in the civilized world, and the remarkable thing is that while this is characterized as a growing spirit of lawlessness, yet it is organized in its form. That's the danger of it. A regiment of United States regulars could deal with thousands of unorganized rioters, but this restlessness and this protest against established authority is becoming international in its extension."

The speaker referred to the growth of the socialistic movements, and the movement for the elimination of the Catholic church from the control of the affairs of nations, as other examples of the disposition of the times to do away with authority.

God's New Dispensation.

"How is God going to deal with conditions of this sort. The same conditions that produced Jesus Christ produced Nero. Paul says all the world has sinned, and that therefore 'he law is a failure. Something else has to be substituted. What is it? Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ, and thou shalt be saved,' the speaker said. "There is the supernatural method that God has introduced."

Relating the legal history of the legal tender cases, Judge Holloway cited the decision of Justice Strong in the final case, to the effect that the question is whether in the times of necessity and stress a government shall have the power to protect itself, or shall she remain helpless in a position of that sort.

"Here is a man," suggested the speaker, "an absolute failure under the law, and without hope. What is God going to do? He has revealed his fatherhood, and says, 'Now, men, you are all violators of the law. When Adam sinned you were tainted. You lost your estate and you cannot inherit the kingdom. But I have provided a Way by which you can be restored to the position you once held. This is a gift I am offering you, and you should not be ashamed to accept it."

"God has extended a pardon to us and assumed our guilt," argued Judge Holloway in conclusion, "and has laid our guilt upon Him who knew no sin, that we might be made righteous." Telling the story of the death of Alexander Black of Greenville, Indiana, one of the best known of Hoosier corporation lawyers, the speaker found the basis for the crucial point of his lesson. Black, in spite of the fact that he had argued against persons who had been injured by getting out of a street car on the wrong side, became careless and neglectful and met his death in this fashion.

"Friends, let us not treat these overtures of mercy on the part of God with neglect," were the closing words of the speaker, and as he resumed his seat, he was accorded an ovation that has seldom been granted to visiting attorneys before the bar of Licking county.

Judge Seward expressed the sentiment of the bar association in a few words, in which he thanked Mr. Holloway for his address and declared the gratitude that was felt for the able exposition of the Word of God.

GET POWER FROM

THE UPPER SPRING

Dr. Lyon's Friday afternoon sermon was a masterpiece of doctrinal discussion and general portrayal of Biblical knowledge, well suited to the deliberations of persons willing to think deeply, and not lacking in its results from the evangelistic standpoint. Fifteen persons accepted Christ during the afternoon meeting, in a very brief after-meeting, but the results of the sermon were far greater than these few conversions; it had the effect of arousing the sincere thought of an audience that was more cultured than usual, upon the profound truths of the gospel of Jesus Christ, and inspired a greater reverence for the Word of God.

"The Fore and After Pentecost Christians," was Dr. Lyon's theme, based on two verses, Luke 24-9, "And behold I send the promise of my Father upon you, but tarry ye in the city of Jerusalem, until ye be endued with power from on high," and Judges 1-15, "And she said unto him, Give me a blessing: for thou hast given me a south land; give me also springs of water; and Caleb gave her the upper springs and then other springs."

"Our theme then," said Dr. Lyon, as he took up his discourse at the close of "Our Saviour" by Mrs. Grace Powell, "is the Holy Spirit. In this matter of fact, pork and beans age of ours, we are apt to think that the things we cannot feel, and taste and handle and see are not practical. But as God looks at it, the things that are spiritual are the practical things, and the things which are material are the impractical things. Not only is the spirit and the spiritual practical, but it is the spiritual that is powerful. The greatest forces of this world are not seen. They are the unseen forces—capillary attraction, heat, the sun's rays, electricity, the attraction of gravity—the great muscle of the universe. Did any one ever see these forces? No, but they are real."

"In a great steel mill you will see a crane work and a chain let down, and a piece of iron or steel put in the end of that chain and carried a hundred or two hundred feet and then dropped. What did it? You can't tell. You say the power of electricity or magnetism. What's that? Is it real? Of course it is. So is the power of the Holy Spirit. You can't see it any more than electricity, but you can see its results."

Power is Permanent.

"Not only is the spirit and the spiritual powerful but it is also permanent," added the evangelist. "The spirit is also personal. All through the teachings of Jesus he speaks of the Holy Spirit not simply as influence, but as a personality. He calls Him the 'Comforter,' which means 'one called to offer help.' Mark you, how the Christian has two helpers," Dr. Lyon continued, as by a skilful interpretation and co-ordination of the gospel he showed that the man who accepts Christ has not only the 'Holy Spirit' as a comforter, but also Christ, the personal Christ, as his intercessor with the heavenly father.

"We are told that not only is this great personage a helper, but we are told that he can teach. Influence doesn't teach. That is personality. We are told that the Holy Spirit shall be grieved. You cannot grieve this spirit or that post. It is a person and a personality only that is grieved. Out on the ranches every man has a particular brand and that brand is registered with the county clerk and recorder. It is recorded with God when you become a Christian; he puts a brand on your brow, a brand unseen by men but seen by the Lord. God knows who it is. My sheep, said Jesus, hear my voice, and the apostle says, they went out from us because they were not of us. If they had been with us, they would have stayed."

Society Women Hint.

"Where you become a Christian, if you were really born of the Holy Ghost God put his seal upon you. Now who is it that grieves the most? Is it a stranger that will grieve you the most or a friend? The friend, of course, and the more intimate the friend the greater will be the grief if he wrongs me. We often think it is the saloon-keeper and gamblers that are going to grieve the Holy Spirit and keep back a revival. No, it isn't. It's the Sunday school superintendent that hasn't put his foot in this tabernacle. It's that lady church member that will go off in the afternoon to her gambling games of bridge whist, five hundred and progressive euchre, but doesn't come to the tabernacle. That one is the friend of the devil more than the saloon-keeper. That one is doing more against a revival than any tin-horn gambler."

"There are those who are grieving the Holy Spirit by their laziness and indifference."

"When a Sunday school superintendent or teacher or officer or church member is like a man out here in the country who said the other night, 'When we are going to have our services in our church, I don't go near the tabernacle. I want to get back into my church.' That man is the kind of a man that pleases the devil."

"My heart almost breaks within me at these afternoon meetings. While there are some active and earnest workers, we have never been any place in Ohio where there is such a large proportion of persons so absolutely indifferent to personal work." This fact, the speaker added, was commented upon by the delegation from Cambridge which visited the Newark tabernacle a few weeks ago.

Don't Blaspheme the Spirit.

"The Holy Ghost can be blasphemed," continued Dr. Lyon. "You cannot blaspheme the ground or a post. It's a person. The blaspheming of the Holy Ghost is greater than all other; greater than blasphemy of Jesus Christ himself. There is a sin that is not to be forgiven."

"Whenever we speak of the Holy Ghost as 'it' it is hurting God's spirit. The Holy Spirit is a person. How would you like to be called 'it'?" Dr. Lyon then advanced his conception of the reason for Christ's leaving this earth. "If Jesus had remained here through his generation," he said, "and all succeeding generations, when that great truth could hold all human life, that Christ is what he claims to be, that very God of very God, every one would have wanted to be with Jesus and every steamer that could be chartered would be carrying people to where He was. It would be impossible to keep them away. It would be impossible for but a very small proportion of those who wanted to hear Christ to have heard him. And, then, if they could not see with their physical eyes or hear with their physical ears, they would say, 'There's no use being a disciple of Jesus.' They would have gotten discouraged! So Jesus said, 'It is really expedient, or advantageous, for me that I go, for as long as I am here physically or materially, so that you can see me, you are not going to seek for the spiritual Christ.'"

"We are too wont to get the first and second, the Father and Son, and the first and third, the Father and Spirit together, but we fail to connect the second and third, the Son and the Spirit."

Like the Sun's Rays.

"You have just as much of the son as you can stand, as you need. The sun sends forth a sunbeam, containing a part of itself, to give you light and warmth. So it is with Christ; He sends the Holy Spirit, and just as the sun shines on New York or New York so the spirit of God, the spiritual Christ, can dwell in your heart just the same as if you were the only person in this universe. This doesn't keep the sun from shining on others, or the spirit from touching other hearts as well as yours."

"The first work of the Holy Spirit is the teaching of the lesson of regeneration. 'Ye must be born again.' This is essential. It is essential for spiritual knowledge. It is essential for spiritual influence. It is essential for spiritual service. Why is it that there are many churches that do not believe in revivals? The reason is that they have never been born again. They know nothing in their own lives of an experience and knowledge of the Holy Spirit. How can you expect them to be interested in something of which they know nothing? I'd rather have a church of twenty members that know God and were born of His spirit, than a thousand members that would join the church as they join a club, a lodge or a literary society."

Put Regeneration in Not a Lot. Don't shop with spiritual birth. I like a baby. It's a beautiful thing. I don't like a baby that smells sour and is dirty; I like a sweet, fat baby. But what is more pitiful than to see a home where there is one that is physically mature, but simply an infant mentally. There is something sadder than that; to see those that are physically and mentally mature, but spiritually are simply infants.

"A young lady in Chicago said recently, 'There are too many babies with moustaches in the church—spiritually arrested since their birth.' They are the people that cause our pastors so much trouble. It's a great thing to dwell in the third chapter of John but don't stay there. Go on to the fourth chapter, where Jesus says, 'You will have springs of everlasting life,' and where Jesus says, 'Out of him shall come streams of living water.'"

Dr. Lyon then showed that Caleb's daughter realized the value of the upper springs, by reason of the potential energy that is created in the fall of water from the greater heights, increasing in its irrigating effect on the soil which it is to enrich. "What the church needs now is not so much men of influence, intellect and wealth, but men of power, and before they have power with men, they have to have power with God, to get their strength from the higher springs," Dr. Lyon added.

He then characterized the disciples that are living before Pentecost. We know that they were saved before Pentecost. We know it because Jesus said, 'Now ye are clean through the Word that I have spoken unto you.' They were born of the Holy Spirit. It's one thing to be born of the Spirit; it's another to be filled with the Spirit. Egypt always has the river Nile, but it is the overflow of the Nile that is Egypt's salvation. A small cup can overflow lots."

The Overflow Counts.

"It isn't how much of God's spirit you can hold. It's how much overflow there is. The birth of the spirit has to do with salvation. The baptism of the spirit has to do with service. There are some in God's work that seem to think that baptism has something to do with salvation from sin—a sort of holier than thou spirit. If you have any holiness people will find it out without you telling them about it. There is nothing said about eradication of sin in the baptism of the Holy Ghost."

"I am noticing that some of the people I at are boasting the most about personal holiness are absolutely the worst about bringing people to Jesus Christ. God deliver us from the person whose only idea of salvation is that it is for himself."

Before Pentecost, Dr. Lyon showed, the apostles shirked their responsibilities. They wanted work done but they wanted others to do it. "You know the little excuses that people give when they have something to do. When a person is filled with the Holy Ghost they don't try to see how little they can do; they try to see how much they can do."

"Why don't you walk up and down these seats at night. They wouldn't sit down in them then. There is nothing that spoils an after meeting as much as a lot of people squatting down like a lot of setting hens. That isn't a time for dignity. It's a time for work. Look at people here more, dignity than have spiritual vitality. Friends, when you get to that point, God is not going to be able to use you."

"Before Pentecost, there was strife and selfishness. Each one wanted to be the greatest, wanted to be the bell sheep."

"Wherever you find a quarrelsome church you will find a church where there is evidently a lack of the Holy Ghost. When people are placed in the baptismal fire, that fire burns out all the dross."

"There was a lack of effectiveness. To be sure, Peter struck off the ear of the guard. He was a great flusher. He didn't strike a vital part at all; just cut off an ear. There are lots of Christians doing just that way today. See them in the aisle going up and down, giving this one and that one the glad hand. Well, that makes me sick. You never can bring souls to Christ that way. You have to do something definite and positive and practical, and let people know you mean business. Don't be like Peter and go out before Pentecost and simply cut off a right ear."

The Hour of Prayer.

Dr. Lyon then traced the journey of the Master to Gethsemane, leaving his disciples in the garden while he went apart from them and sweat the blood drops that was to wash away the sins of the world. "And when he returned, how did he find them? He found the evangelist. 'Like a large share of the New Testament church members,' said Dr. Lyon, "the evidence of the Master's life is living before his disciples in the garden while he went apart from them and sweat the blood drops that was to wash away the sins of the world. 'And when he returned, how did he find them? He found the evangelist. Minnewa Tribe, No. 52, met in regular council Friday night. Three applications for membership were received and committees appointed upon same. A committee has been appointed to revise the tribal by-laws and the tribe will have new by-laws by the first of the year. Friday night, Nov. 1, there will be several candidates for the Adoption degree and all members of the degree team are requested to be present on that night. Another class of candidates will be adopted on the first meeting night in December, and no doubt this will be the last class adoption to wind up the member-getting contest, which ends the first of the year.

In accordance with this decision, 300 of the Knights in the city met at the hall last evening for that purpose. Headed by a band kindly furnished by Brother Wm. M. Morgan, and about 300 business girls, who marched down from the sunper at the Plymouth Congregational church and took their position in the line in front of the postoffice, the procession was taken up, going around the north side of the square and out Main street to the tabernacle. A Lady's Comment On Medicine and Religion

The following letter is from a lady whose name I am not at liberty to use. If I should mention her name she would be known by almost every reader. She writes in part: "Your article entitled 'Medicine and Religion' has been read and re-read by me many times. It seems to me that the article contains the substance of all that has been said about Christian Science, a new thought, suggestive therapeutics and other forms of mental healing.

"I am very much pleased to observe that you are putting out into the world such useful literature. It will do untold good, without doubt; not only for those who take medicine, but for those who try to get along without taking medicine. Your article is terse, to the point, and will be read by thousands.

"Medicine and religion have always been very closely associated. Only in very recent years have the two been regarded as separate professions. I am glad that you brought this out so clearly. The tendency of carried at the head of the column, and the parade, a quarter of a mile long, was an imposing one. The services at the tabernacle were greatly enjoyed, and the sermon by Evangelist Lyon was one that sank deep into the hearts of his hearers and will do great good.

On Thursday evening, Nov. 14, another county meeting will be held in this city, and preparations are being made for a big occasion. Committees have been appointed to look after this event, and they will meet with County Deputy C. A. Burke of Johnstown next Tuesday evening to make final plans.

THE BIRTHDAY CALENDAR

IF THIS IS YOUR BIRTHDAY

You will grieve over some love affair. Take care that you are not the one guilty of the wrong. Your year will be full of annoyances and will profit you little, unless you can draw strength from your experiences. In regret.

Those born today will have many difficulties and disappointments, but they are born to succeed and will learn to laugh at trouble from sheer familiarity with it. They will have the power of seeing beyond it.

Letters will cause you annoyance and troubles; people will be hard to get along with. Your own high purpose will be difficult to follow through the maze of distracting trifles. Remember, your life is ruled by Mars, the star of courage.

Those born today will have the qualities best for success in active pursuits and in businesses of the larger kind. In more quiet pursuits they must be on guard against dissipation, which they will turn to as a relief from inaction.

"As to Peruna, I have nothing to say. I very seldom make use of any medicine. But I assure you that your article has so enthused me with the good advice it contains that if I have any need for medicine I shall certainly buy a bottle of Peruna. I shall not neglect to recommend it to others also."

WILSON VICTORY IS PREDICTED

Two of the largest and most influential Republican papers in the United States, while supporting President Taft in this campaign, practically concede the election of Governor Woodrow Wilson. The two papers are the New York Herald and the Chicago Record-Herald. The publications have been conducting a nationwide poll, and judging from the results obtained, Governor Wilson will sweep the country.

The Herald has been carrying on straw votes for more than a score of years, and its canvasses in past years have always been verified in November.

The New York Sun, which is also supporting Taft, prints the following review of the Herald's efforts:

"The Herald publishes its first installment of its country-wide review of the Presidential situation, and its indications are that Wilson is easily leading both Taft and Roosevelt, with Taft running third, according to the straw ballots. More than 24,000 test ballots were taken in various parts of the country.

"Of the total straw ballots in all regions the result was as follows:

"Wilson, 11,164; Roosevelt, 7,147; Taft, 4,784; Debs, 1,800."

In Ohio Wilson obtained 1914 votes, Taft 942, Roosevelt 518.

All the occupants of the machine escaped but Girard, who was caught under the wreck. He sustained a badly sprained back and numerous body bruises. The Columbus police department was notified and dispatched an auto-parol to the scene and took the injured man to a Columbus hospital. His injuries are not serious.
